PRESIDENT FRANCIS ON FAIR TERMINALS.

Declares That Exposition Company Does Not Seek to Operate System on Grounds.

STATEMENT OF THE SITUATION.

Railroads Have Been Slow to Take Up Proposition Made by Company and Matter Is Still in an Uncertain State.

President Francis of the Exposition Com pany issued a statement yesterday in reference to the published report that Henry Morris, former auditor of the Colorado Line, would be offered the position of Masor Transportation for the World's Fair terninals. In answer to an inquiry as to whether Mr. Morris had been engaged to operintend these terminals, he said:

"No. Mr. Morris has not been engaged and there is no foundation whatever for the statement to that effect. In fact, the Exposition Company has not yet decided to own and operate the tracks within its grounds. The Executive Committee has had the subject under consideration a number of times and has invariably expressed preference for the organization of an independent and separate terminal company. "I have had the matter under discussion with the rallroads time and again, but ave thus far been unable to convince them have thus far been unable to convince them that they should own and eperate the tracks within the grounds. As I have stated, in addition to other objections to the Exposition Company operating them, it would be at a great disadvantage in holding its contractors and exhibitors to a compliance with their time contracts with the company. "It is possible, however, that we may yet be compelled to add this labor and responsibility to those we now have. We shall make a great effort, however, to avoid the expensive mistakes in this line made by mistakes in this line made by other expositions. STATEMENT FROM FAIR OFFICIALS.

A member of the Executive Committee who was seen yesterday seemed to think it was singular that the newspapers were apparently unable to get a correct understanding of the position of the committee in the matter of the railroad tracks in the Exposition grounds. He said the committee was emphatically opposed now, and had been at all times, to any policy that would, equire the Exposition Company to go into the railroad business.

times. The exposition Company to go into the railroad business.

"There has been a difference of judgment in respect to this between the Executive Committee and the Transportation Committee," he said, "but so far the Executive Committee has consistently maintained the position it has taken from the beginning.
The committee believed the Exposition Company would inevitably be involved in serious embarrassment if it should under take to conduct a railway terminal business, both in the case of the contractors who are constructing the buildings and likewise of the exhibitors who must be required to install their exhibits with due regard to fixed limitations of time.

"It is imperatively necessary that the Exposition Company should be so situated that it can compel a specific fulfillment of obligations. This it would be unable to do if either the contractor or exhibitor could say gations. This it would be unable to do if either the contractor or exhibitor could say that he was prevented from fulfilling his agreement because the Exposition Company had not delivered freight on time. Such an excuse would be impossible if the contractor or exhibitor was dealing with a third party. With the Exposition Company making the delivery of freight, the whole burden of responsibility would constantly be thrown back on the company.

PROJECT REQUIRES MUCH CAPITAL. This consideration has been in large part to occasion for the position taken by the This consideration has been in large fact, the occasion for the position taken by the Executive Committee, but it has been re-enforced by the further consideration that the amount of money required to put in terminal tracks and provide the proper operating equipment would greatly increase the expenses of the Exposition Company.

'It has been urged on the part of the railroad managers that the Exposition Comrailroad managers that the expesition Com-pany could reimburse itself for this ex-pense by proper terminal and switching charges, but even if that could be done the committee felt the initial expense could not be excaped—they could not ignore the fact that it would add considerably to the amount of money they would have to pro-vide to carry out the plans of the Exposi-tion.

"Being strongly committed against the Exposition Company installing and operating its own terminals, the committee was compelled to find a way by which tracks could be brought into the grounds and by which the freight required in construction could be delivered at the point where contractors would need i. Fortunately the chairman of the Grounds and Building Committee found a solution for the difficult problem by persuading the Colorado line to run a spur into the Exposition Grounds. This was the only railroad which was so situated that it could make a cancetion, and when the arrangement was reported to the Executive Committee it was welcomed as a very fortunate relief in a troublesome emergency. Being strongly committed against the

'It was always understood as a temporary "It was always understood as a temporary arrangement, intended to last only until a permanent terminal plan was worked out. The temporary arrangement has been continued very much longer than was originally contemplated, because of unexpected delay in working out the permanent plans. This delay was a natural result of the determined resolution of the committee not to go into the railway business.

WOULD CONTINUE ARRANGEMENT.

"The committee would have deemed it fortunate if the temporary arrangement could continue, but this was some time since shown to be impossible, the Colorado road having at an early date last summer made a formal request for reimbursement of the expense it had undergone. This request was definitely passed on by the Executive Committee at one of its meetings in August, when it voted to purchase the tracks put in by the Colorado road if it should finally prove impossible to promote the organization of an independent terminal company, to be owned and operated by all of the railroads. The action of the committee at the meeting in August was subrequently reathfuned at a meeting the last week in September. However, the committee it still at sea respecting a plan for the construction of tracks; it is still unwilling to go into the railway business.

"There has never at any time been any intentien to bar any railway from the use of the tracks within the grounds. Now and at all times hereelfore any railroad that could reach the tracks has had the liberty to rim its cars over them, subject, of course, to proper and reasonable regulations. No better evidence of the policy of the Exposition Company in this respect could be afforded than has been given in the construction of the tracks connecting the Missouri Pacific and the Frisco roads with the tracks put in by the Colorado. This connection was made just as soon as the roads entering at the south were brought up to the Exposition grounds." WOULD CONTINUE ARRANGEMENT.
